

LEGISLATURE HAS VERY LITTLE WORK FOR TODAY, THE LAST OF THE SESSION

(From Wednesday's Advertiser.)

The loan bill had short life in the Senate yesterday, the measure being lost on the carrying of a motion for indefinite postponement. No one attempted to save the bill and it went to its rest unannounced.

The Senate had planned to take up the House resolution on the Organic Act amendments in the committee of the whole yesterday, but the resolution was again deferred until this morning, when the resolution will be considered as soon as the minutes are read.

The bill preventing purchasers from imposing in buying an animal which the seller knows to be afflicted with disease, passed third reading as did also the measure allowing circuit courts to compel the attendance of witnesses from any part of the Territory.

The Senate practically concluded its labors yesterday and today will be devoted to clearing up the odds and ends of legislation and consideration of the proposed amendments to the Organic Act.

Knudsen's Views.

In speaking of the results of the legislative session of 1909, Chairman Knudsen of the Judiciary Committee, said yesterday:

"The Judiciary Committee handled fully seventy per cent. of the bills introduced in the Senate and about eighty per cent. of the House bills that came up for consideration."

"None of the bills opposed by the Judiciary Committee became law, whereas all but two of the bills recommended by the committee passed the Senate, and most of them reached the Governor and became law."

"A great number of the bills introduced were of a seemingly unimportant nature, but have been very necessary in order to remove little inconsistencies in the present laws, in order to make them more workable."

"The legislation that I was most interested in as chairman of the Judiciary Committee was that which turned over to the counties larger powers of self-government, believing that local men can handle local affairs better than men living at a distance, believing also that if the responsibility is placed on the counties a great many people who have in the past been indifferent to their civic duties will wake up and take a hand in the management of their local affairs."

"This has been one of the best sessions I have ever attended, and the ability of our local legislature to handle our local affairs becomes more and more evident, each session being a distinct advance over its predecessor."

Senator Chillingworth of the select committee on the House Organic Act resolution returned the document to the Senate with an observation that it was too late in the session for a committee to take up the resolution seriously, and believed that it should be returned to the Senate, which could take such action as its wisdom might dictate. With the Senate resolution on the land question, the House resolution was then placed on the order of the day.

Senator Baker voiced some slightly incoherent objection to the House bill amending the law relating to diseased animals, apparently thinking that it was going to work a hardship on some of his constituents. The measure was FOUNDED IN HONOUR.

No doubt you have seen in the papers such announcements as this concerning some medicine or other: "If, on trial, you write that this medicine has done you no good we will refund your money." Now, we have never had reason to speak in that way concerning the remedy named in this article. In a trade extending throughout the world, nobody has ever complained that our medicine has failed, or asked for the return of his money. The public never grumbles at honestly and skillfully made bread, or at a medicine which really and actually does what it was made to do. The foundations of WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION are laid in sincerity and honour, the knowledge of which on the part of the people explains its popularity and success. There is nothing to disguise or conceal. It was not dreamed out, or discovered by accident; it was studied out, on the solid principles of applied medical science. It is palatable as honey and contains all the curative properties of pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is praised by all who have employed it in any of the diseases it is recommended to relieve and cure, and is effective from the first dose. In Anemia, General Debility, Influenza, and all Throat and Lung Troubles, it is a specific. Dr. Thos. Hunt Strucky says: "The continued use of it in my practice, convinces me that it is the most palatable, least nauseating, and best preparation now on the market." You can take it with the assurance of getting well. One bottle proves its value. "It cannot disappoint you." Sold by chemists finally passed over the dissenting votes of Senator Baker, Brown, Harvey and Makela.

Senator Knudsen moved to table the bill extending the powers to summon witnesses. His motion was lost, the bill being finally passed on the affirmative votes of Brown, Coelho, Harvey, Kalamo, Makekani, McCarthy, Moore, Quinn, Robinson and Woods.

The House bill relating to tax liens passed third reading with the full vote of the Senate, and the House bill, removing the prohibition on deputy sheriffs appearing as counsel in civil cases, was laid on the table, Coelho being father of the motion.

The House joint resolution to name the park at Waikanae, Hilo, after Kamehameha III. as Kaukaeouli Park, was adopted.

Swamp Bill.

The Senate bill providing for the reclamation of the Waikiki swamp land was laid on the table on the motion of Senator Chillingworth, it being understood that course would be pursued when the bill was introduced, for the time at the disposal of the Legislature did not permit of the serious consideration of the bill.

The House concurrent resolution naming a Hilo park under Representative Kealawa was taken up for consideration. Senator Makekani, as an "amendment," suggested that the name of the new playground be "Brown Park." The final disposition of the resolution was left to the select committee of the Hawaii delegation. It is believed a compromise will be reached by naming a tree in the park for each member of the Hawaii delegation.

HOUSE

This morning the House will meet for the last work of the session, a session that has been full of work, work all cleaned up and disposed of. Little remains to be done today, except kill time with oratory until midnight arrives.

The House had little to do yesterday and did that little with neatness and despatch. The morning session saw three bills in third reading passed, with one read through on second reading ready for final action today.

Affonso's Home Rule resolution was tabled because of the fact that the House has already gone on record on this subject, favoring only the appointment of local men to local offices in the Federal positions.

Senate Bill 58, which exempts from taxation any hospital that maintains three free beds, passed third reading.

Senate Bill 150, appropriating $6000 to pay the district magistrate at Kalaupapa $25 a month for his salary, also passed third reading.

Senate Bill 152, which appropriates $2000 additional for the expenses of the second circuit court, Maui, passed.

Found in Wastepaper Basket.

The Home Rule resolution, on the order of the day for the second reading, could not be found. Finally the Clerk searched the wastepaper basket and discovered it. It had blown off the table the day before and been jammed into the basket. There it had been variously and plentifully spit on. This was not the reason for tabling it, however, the reason being stated by Affonso, the introducer, who asked for the tabling because he was convinced the first Home Resolution had satisfactorily covered the point.

Revived the Commission.

Long succeeded in reviving the resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to investigate the conditions elsewhere regulating the collection and distribution of school funds. The vote to reconsider carried and the resolution was restored to the calendar for action.

A number of other resolutions came in. One was to authorize the Superintendent of Public Works to extend Queen street through to the Beach road. This was referred to the Public Lands Committee, which reported favorably on it. The report was adopted and the resolution passed.

Kealawa Park.

Kawewehi brought up again the matter of naming Hilo park No. 2, Kealawa Park, which had been decided upon in a joint resolution but which had fallen on the way to the Senate. Kawewehi put the matter up again in the form of a concurrent resolution. Affonso protested in a way not to hurt Kealawa's feelings, but the resolution was adopted.

SUPERVISORS LOOK LIKE A SESSION AT CUNHA'S

Supervisor Quinn last night asked that the seating arrangements of the board be changed and that each member be provided with a small desk and that these be arranged in a semi-circle facing the Mayor; that spittoons be provided, hat racks placed upon the wall, and a water-cooler be set up. Mr. Quinn added that the board in session now looks like a sitting at Cunha's library table. The ways and means committee has been saddled with the contract to try to carry out the reform suggestions.

LEADING EDITORS OF THE COLONIES SAW THE LOCAL SIGHTS YESTERDAY

(From Wednesday Advertiser.)

On their road to London, to take part in a conference of the leading men of journalism in the British Empire, eleven newspaper proprietors and editors of New Zealand and Australia passed through Honolulu yesterday.

Their mission is a great one, to carry "home" assurance that the Colonies in the South Pacific are ready to stand by and with the Empire and the other colonies throughout the world, and that Australia and New Zealand are no longer content with standing idly by while the Mother Country is straining every nerve to protect her far-stretching dominions, but are now prepared to assume a share of the burden. These eleven are only a few of the Colonial newspaper men now on their way to the center of their Empire, more of them having sailed by the P. & O. liners. On their way they will be joined by the journalists of India, just as the ones in Honolulu yesterday will be joined as they cross Canada by the journalists of the Dominion, while in London they will meet their fellow journalists from South Africa, from the West Indies, from the British colonies in South America, from every corner of the earth where British writers on British soil deal with the problems of the Empire.

With the party in Honolulu yesterday were the proprietors of some of the most influential of Colonial newspapers, for whom great preparations of welcome are under way in Canada. At Victoria, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Montreal they will be feted, while the Governor General of the Dominion has cabled them an invitation to a dinner and reception. In London they will be addressed by the leading statesmen and will be entertained by King Edward. There will be a special review of the great Channel and North Atlantic fleets in their honor, and a gathering of many thousand soldiers at Aldershot. Their coming to London is regarded there as second only in importance to the Empire to the gathering of Colonial Premiers, recently.

Affairs of the greatest importance are to be discussed by these members of the British press. The unity of the Empire will be the keynote of them all. Quicker communication by rail and sea, cheaper postal and cable rates, a greater interchange of the news of the outlying sections and other matters of like nature will be gone into. The question of Imperial defense and the share that each colony is to bear will be discussed. The problems of the Empire which affect the whole will be gone into in search of solutions, while, greatest of all from an Imperial standpoint, the desirability and feasibility of an Imperial Parliament, with representatives from the countries of the Four Seas, will be broached and debated.

Were Entertained Here.

So far as was possible in the limited time the steamer remained in port the distinguished visitors were entertained, being met at the wharf by a committee composed of members of the local press and from the Promotion Committee and taken about the town in automobiles. Accompanying the journalists were eight ladies, the wives of seven and the daughter of R. F. Thomas, of the Adelaide Register. To meet them at the wharf were W. A. Bowen, chairman of the Promotion Committee; Will Cooper, of the publicity department; W. R. Farrington, of the Bulletin; L. S. Connors, of the Star, and R. O. Matthews, of the Advertiser staff.

The visitors were: George Fenwick, Ottago Daily Times, Dunedin; Mark Cohen, Evening Star, Dunedin; Greasley Lukin, Post, Wellington; Henry Brett, Star, Auckland; Hudson Berkeley, Morning Herald, Newcastle; Thomas Temperley, Daily Argus, Bathurst; Edward S. Cunningham, Argus, Melbourne; Norman Clark, Courier, Ballarat; Robert K. Thomas, Register, Adelaide; Hon. Charles E. Davies, M.L.C., The Mercury, Hobart, and Hon. John W. Kirwan, M.L.C., The Miner, Kalgoorlie.

After the party had lunched on board, automobiles were taken to the docks and the party taken to the pier, by way of the postoffice. At the pier, where the beauty of the scene was admired highly, the party drove through town to the Capitol, where they were received in a short interview by the Governor. It had been the desire of the visitors to see the Hawaiian Legislature in action, but that sight was lost through the early adjournment of the session. Some few members who had lingered were presented to the visitors.

who bore away with them also as souvenirs copies of some of the House bills in Hawaiian.

The next stop, after being driven through the Panahou district, was at the Aquarium. This institution was gone through with the greatest interest, and with many manifestations of delight, especially from the ladies in the party. They were then taken to the Moana, where tea was served on the lanai and a number of the visitors indulged in a dip. Mr. Brett and some others of the younger members of the delegation also enjoyed a series of surf canoe rides, voting the sport a most exhilarating one. Dinner was had by the party and some members of the committee at the Moana.

Several members of the delegation expressed regret that no opportunity was given them to express in some public way their appreciation of the courtesy shown them by the Chamber of Commerce through the Promotion Committee and by the local press, making an especial request that this appreciation might be voiced for them through the columns of the Advertiser.

Hungry for News.

Almost as soon as the members of the Honolulu committee had introduced themselves to the visitors on board the Marama, the question was asked: "What is the news?" The newspaper men had been thirteen days out of reach of cable and wanted very much to know what had happened around the world.

With the greatest eagerness they listened to an account of the momentous doings in Turkey during the past ten days, but this was not exactly what was wanted.

"Has anything been happening at home?" they asked. "Home" meant England in this case. Unfortunately the Honolulu cable service had said little about the affairs of Great Britain.

Notes of the Day.

The blue gum trees along the pali road and the emus at Kapiolani Park were things appreciated by the visitors. When Mr. Brett, of Auckland, was last in Honolulu it was while passing through to Europe as the Australian Commissioner to the Paris Exposition. At that time he was entertained by Queen Liliuokalani and feasted at a luau, given by John A. Cummins.

Some of the party were driven out to Moanalua and to the Bishop Museum, while others extended their drive to include the Diamond Head circuit. J. L. Kelly, formerly of the Hilo Tribune, and Mr. Stokes, of the Bishop Museum, found friends among the visitors.

JACK LONDON'S COOK RETURNS ON MARAMA

"Jack London is now in South America, near Cape Horn. His wife is with him, and they will start for San Francisco from one of the South American ports about two months hence."

Thus said T. Wada, who shipped as cook in the Snark at Hilo, and who returned from Australia as a steerage passenger on the Marama yesterday afternoon. Wada is a Japanese and he does not speak English very well, but he knows enough to give Jack London a roast.

"Jack London not much good in long trip," said the cook. "He all right when weather all right, when grub all right, when everything all right. We go from Hilo and have pretty good time. When we get to Solomon Islands, then plenty pikia. Captain he no stop on board the Snark, Jack London he captain. Bismarck we get to Sydney and Jack London he get sick. Then he say, 'No more trip. I go back San Francisco pretty soon.'"

"I think he no well man now. He sick most all the time before he go down South America. He tell me the time he go back San Francisco, and I think about two months from now." Wada states that the Snark is at present in Sydney, where it will be sold by London. He does not think London will pass through on his way to San Francisco.

ASA IS CAUGHT.

Asa, the Japanese crook, suspected of stealing a box containing a dozen pairs of shoes consigned to the "Paia Store," was caught at 1 o'clock this morning in the old warehouse from which he was chased on Saturday morning. Chief Leal and Apana landed on him and found him asleep on a new blanket with a pair of the "Paia" shoes on his feet. Half a dozen handkerchiefs indicated he had committed burglary elsewhere.

OBJECTED TO QUINN REPORT

(From Wednesday's Advertiser.)

Supervisor McCellan took a firm stand last night against the budgeting tactics of a portion of the membership of the board against Road Overseer Paole of Koolau district and demanded that a portion of a report which censured Paole for disbursing all the Koolau appropriation before the month was over, and which he asserted is not borne out by facts, be stricken out. He stated, and was backed up by the Mayor and Supervisor Kane, that the money is being spent on the bugaboo Waialeale bridge repairs, which were not only authorized, but ordered by the board, and to be done under the direction of Engineer Gere.

Supervisor Quinn, chairman of the committee which made the report, in defending his statement, said that it was really not intended to censure Paole so much as to serve as a warning to all road overseers not to overpay their appropriation. Mr. McCellan intimated that this sort of serving notice on others was a poor way of preparing a report and using one overseer as a scapegoat. The Mayor stated that the bridge had cost so far in materials, supplies, engines, labor, etc., about $1500. Engineer Gere denied that the Mayor was making a correct statement and said it was much lower.

The committee's paragraph censuring Paole was as follows: "We found that the road overseer has used all the money allotted to the district of Koolau for the month of March; the said road overseer thought he had about $150 on hand. We think that this is a very bad practice to use up all the money in a few days; it is better to keep working a whole month and thus prevent the teams being idle—eating their heads off for the balance of the month."

The Mayor had a report of expenditures item by item from Paole and when he endeavored to present it was headed off from giving the facts to the board by a motion to defer the decision as to the offending paragraph until a later meeting, Logan demanding that the motion be put, denying a mere courtesy to the Mayor.

The same committee refused to let Paole have a telephone, although his predecessor had one. They said he didn't need one. The committee, referring again to a Paole communication to the Mayor, said "We condemn the practice of sending communications in regard to road work to the Mayor and not to the Board of Supervisors. We thoroughly understand that every officer of the city and county has a right under the law to notify the Mayor of any irregularities pertaining to city and county matters, but we submit that the road overseer should communicate to the board relating to matters to roads, etc."

As a matter of fact all expenditures incurred by Paole for repairing Waialeale bridge have been under general authorizations of the board which ordered Gere to plan for the new bridge, and the money had to come out of Paole's general Koolau road fund. At one stage of the discussion which was strained at times, Quinn said, "You people are always bringing in politics," and then the Mayor stopped him and asked him not to mention politics at all.

Engineer Gere, looking directly at the Mayor, said there was "wild talk" as to what has been going on at the Waialeale bridge, and added "when a statement is made by the Mayor as he made it and McCellan made it, that statement is not so."

SUPERVISOR DAN LOGAN WANTS RETRENCHMENT

A lengthy and elaborate statement of the condition of the city and county finances was made last night at the Board of Supervisors' meeting by Supervisors Logan and Ahia, showing that the finances are a little ragged and that the county is enjoying an overdraft. Mr. Logan summarized the report in a concrete form and appended to it a resolution as follows: "City and County of Honolulu, Honolulu, April 27, 1909.

"To the Mayor and Board of Supervisors.

"Gentlemen: Your committee on ways and means herewith submit a financial statement, showing that for the three months ending with March there has been an average overdraft of $357.44 a month as between the treasury balance and money voted under appropriations.

"As the balance for four months from February is estimated after deducting votes for extraordinary expenditures (petrol, oil, plant, Waialeale bridge, adding machine, fire extinguishers and fire heater) amounting to $2774, and the money voted for payroll under the enabling act ($4793.49), of which a large portion was not foreseen when the half-yearly appropriations were made, together with other large demands, including judgment, legal expenses, etc., are included in the actual expenditures, the entire exhibit shows that the various municipal services have been conducted well within the allowances made at the first of the half-yearly period, with the exception of one or two instances of slight advances drawn on items of material and supplies.

"Nevertheless, there is a deficiency as seen, and it is necessary that some retrenchment be made in the incidents wherever possible and that the allowance for roads and bridges for the remaining two months be reduced.

"Your committee would therefore submit the following resolution: "Resolved, That the monthly pro rata allowance for roads and bridges be reduced for May and June in the following amounts for the districts named: $200 for Honolulu, $200 for Ewa, $200 for Waialua, $200 for Koolau, $200 for Koolau; making $1000 in all."

"At an early date your committee will present a statement of the finan-

THE HOLD-UP OF TOURISTS

(From Wednesday Advertiser.)

M. A. Moore, of Le Mars, Iowa, has a kick coming to the United States Congress and the men who manipulated the Coastwise Relief Bill so that it died a miserable death. Mr. Moore has been coming here at intervals since 1901 and he always brings his family with him. Last fall he bought his return tickets to Australia and had to travel on the Canadian line because there is no American line between the United States and the colonies. On January 20, he booked at Sydney to take the Marama at this port and had his arrangements made for going home when he heard there was no record of his name on the ship's list.

"I come here because I like the climate," Mr. Moore said yesterday, "and my family enjoys the place and the people, but I confess this experience has given me something of a grudge. We had arranged to leave on the Marama and had everything in readiness but the other day we learned we were not to have berths on her. It happens that I have to get home on account of rather urgent business so I have secured resting room in one of the alleyways of the Marama. My family will wait for the Makura as our tickets from the Coast are via Seattle and it will not be more expensive to wait here than to pay steamer fare on the Alameda and train fare from San Francisco to Seattle. What I object to is being compelled to remain while the Tenyo Maru left with room for upwards of ninety passengers. We would certainly be more comfortable if we were going together than to divide up and leave the wife and girls here."

"I think someone is to blame for not keeping track of my booking in Sydney. It shows a lack of system on the part of the Canadian-Australian steamship employees," continued Mr. Moore. "What security has a man who books and makes all arrangements to leave a place and then finds himself shut out by the coastwise shipping laws? It seems to me there should be no further switching on the part of the people who live here and who encourage tourist travel; if they want people to come and make short or long visits they should provide means for their returning to their homes. We might go on a sailing vessel, perhaps, but we do not care for that; time is too valuable these days to travel on a sail boat when there is a steamer. I am a good American and believe in upholding the industries of the country but I draw the line at marooning because it pleases the magnates who control the shipping in the United States to indulge in that sport to the disadvantage of others who enjoy visiting overseas."

"Personally I prefer the English ships because the officers do so much to make the journey pleasant for the passengers. When we got on the Avonangi at Suva, one of the officers came to us with a program of all the time. We have traveled on other steamers and there was nothing to do. This experience, however, has opened my eyes to the fact that even the officers of the English ships can improve a bit and not hurt the feelings of those who book and then find they are not booked."

"The next time we come to Honolulu we are going to take one way tickets to Honolulu and go as we please without regard to destination on the home end of the journey. This delay has its pleasant features of course. It gives the girls a chance to do their spring sewing, they buy the materials from the local merchants and when they go on the Makura a month hence they will feel acquainted with the steamer for they were on her twenty-four days going to Australia. When I go back I think I will write my views of the coastwise laws to the Washington Post, a pretty lively paper and one that is willing to hear from a man while he feels the sting."

SUPERVISORS TO ACT AGAINST SCORCHERS

After a debate in which Supervisor Quinn called attention to the disregard of the law shown by many auto-drivers, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, It is common knowledge that many automobile chauffeurs and drivers habitually disregard the speed limit ordinance, and the number of accidents in which automobiles are concerned appears, from daily newspaper reports, to be increasing;

"Resolved, That a special committee, to consist of the chairmen of the roads and bridges and the police committees, with another member of this board to be named by the Mayor, be appointed to consider the present automobile speed ordinance with a view to ascertain whether or not it is advisable to amend it, and if so to recommend on the advice of the City and County Attorney such amendment as may be deemed advisable.

"Further Resolved, That the committee be authorized and directed to hold such public hearings as may be felt advisable, inviting automobile owners and all interested to appear and be heard."
